DIETARY INSTRUCTIONS

IN THE WEEK LEADING UP TO YOUR COLONOSCOPY, YOUR DOCTOR HAS PRESCRIBED A LOW-FIBER/LOW-RESIDUE DIET.

“Residue” is the word for parts of food, such as fiber, that pass undigested through the bowel. This is what forms stool. Low-residue foods are easily digested and absorbed. They leave the least residue, which results in less stool and a clean prep for your colonoscopy.

- Avoid nuts, seeds, dried fruits, dried beans, and peas.
 - Avoid whole grains and cereals.
- Choose cooked or canned fruits and vegetables over fresh ones.
- Choose white bread, white rice, and products made with refined flour.
 - Drink juices without pulp.
 - Eat tender, well-cooked meals.

ON THE DAY BEFORE YOUR COLONOSCOPY (TIL 5:00PM)
YOU MAY HAVE CLEAR LIQUIDS ONLY. CLEAR LIQUIDS INCLUDE:

- You may have any liquid you can see through that is not red, blue, purple, orange, brown, or black in color.
 - Beef, chicken, and vegetable broth or bouillon
 - Apple juice, white grape juice, white cranberry juice
- Clear sodas (diet or regular) such as Sprite, 7-Up, Ginger Ale, Cream Soda
 - Jell-O and popsicles in appropriate colors (see first bullet)
 - Coffee and tea (NO milk or cream, but sugar or sweetener is OK).
 - Do not use any chewing gum or chewing tobacco
